The image of deposed President Joseph Estrada, the Pwersang Magiting (PMA) presidential candidate, has seemed to have a real effect on the mind conditioning effects of that Joe. Many Villar's "successor" TV ad campaigns.

Leveraging Gilgamesh, the PMA spokesperson, said Villar's ads could be the reason why Baby James, the 2-year-old son of television host Kris Aquino, learned how to walk in a room only for the toddler's uncle, Liberal Party presidential candidate Sen. Benigno Aquino III.

"(Baby James) has been shown how one must lean far forward and receive, spending can condition the minds of people, even innocent toddlers," Gilgamesh said.

Let's hope Senator Villar's use of money as his bridge to the presidency took only the little kids," he added.

Analysts say low-rating 'presidentiables' can still catch up

By Vincent Cabrera, Inquirer Northern Luzon and TJ Burgos, in Manila

MANILA CITY—FILIPINO VOTERS' UNFAMILIARITY WITH automated elections may benefit the survey low-performers and tailenders in the presidential race, political scientists said on Friday.

The odds are high that voters favoring the survey front-runner Benigno

"Noynoy" Aquino III and Manuel Villar Jr. could end up with spoiled ballots on May 30, thus giving a boost to the underdog candidates, said Mr. Lourdes Tagala, founder and general manager of the political consultancy group, Public Asia Inc.

Even administration candidate Gilbert "Gibo" Teodoro, a constant fourth in the surveys, has a fighting chance because of anticipated voters' errors, Tagala said.

And campaign "operators" at the headwaters can further swing votes in favor of the tailenders, said Tagala, who was one of 40 political scientists from Manila, Cebu, Iloilo and Mindanao who took part in a plenary discussion on the May 16 automated polls at the University of the Philippines Baguio.

The political scientists said that in a maddening simulation of automated the bad guys who provide the votes in a certain town or province. It's enough for a study case.

"These political operators go to the highest holders," the independent presidential candidate and first-time in electoral politics said before his exit and staff on Thursday night.

According to Perlas, the operators put on a show of listening to the candidate discuss the issues. "Then they'd ask for P50 million, P10 million, with a promise I'd win that province if I paid," he said.

If Perlas had earlier mentioned those people, now he would "bypass" them. He would rather spend time with crowds that are off the radar of traditional politicians, like indigenous peoples (IPs), sportsmen and other common folk in far-flung barangays that the front-running candidates would not think of visiting face to face.

Absentee voting off to slow start; Villar gets 1st vote

BOJING BOJING—SEN. MANUEL VILLAR, THE Nacionalista Party presidential candidate and his running mate Sen. Loren Legarda, got the very first votes cast in the automated-elections system being road-tested in Hong Kong and Singapore at the start of the absentee overseas voting for the 2010 elections yesterday.

The computerized balloting in Singapore and Hong Kong will serve as a test and model for the nationwide electronic elections in the Philippines on May 10.

But the results of the absentee overseas voting will not be known until after May 30 as the overseas votes will be tallied simultaneously with

Monitors voting was-off to an early start in the two cities, which hosts hundreds of thousands of overseas Filipino voters, despite the severity of the new automated voting system. (Reprinted story in Global Post on Page A25.)

The first note in Gungahara was Lynda Delaney, who commented that the new system was much easier than the manual mode that she used in the 2004 elections. "When in Gungahara started writing in the precinct as early as 8 a.m., the Dupont, moved house Affairs said.

Trending concerns

But the Club's decision is the media's forgoing for Villar raised a concern for the Committee that the overseas absence voting results would be difficult to monitor.

Comptroller spokeswoman Janet Almeida said the Committee would not prevent anyone from asking people who they had voted for, but would not propagate anti-Chinese bias.

But the poll body would look for ways to prevent the appearance of irregularities based on the systems, he said.

"It's very important for us that the elections here in the Philippines will not be perceived as having been influenced by any outside factor such as meddling or subversion that will be generated by the various American wing," he said.

"So the old girl really was looking into the news and would see what it was do to minimize the possibility of cheating and a hangover effect coming out of the overseas voting process," she says.

But Internet and the discovery of the first thing being voted was done was more than was needed by. He acknowledged that the nature was "unconventional."

"But it is the first vote it is covered, that's done. It's not there already. We'll see what we can do over the next few days put to prevent the appearance of anything," he said.

As the day went on, volunteers flouting support for other political candidates began arriving at the precinct. In Hong Kong, groups of women said they were voting for British officials.

Insaromata Asia, the provider of the POOS equipment and the automated election system, said that as the voting had been going on in the two sites without a glitch as POOS machines

Reports from Gamble's officials in Hong Kong and Singapore said rising raw silk has smoothed its prospects.

Gamble Commissioner Antonio Wilson, chair of the overseas advisory ruling committee who was in Singapore yesterday, said no glut was experienced with the PCOE industries in the areas producing the Philippine commodities.

The early accomplishment from Hong Kong came from a couple of engineers who did not use their names on the computer.

As of 3 p.m. yesterday, 111 voters had cast their votes in King Hong. Only one vote was rejected by the machines, according to Douglas Frank, a volunteer member of the special board of election inspectors.

the Florida National Council for Responsible Voting, the Council's citizens arm, who attended the first day of voting in Hong Kong, said she was impressed with the orderly process.

She expressed the hope that the results of the study would be replicated with the Philippines in May 10.

We have noted that not every pregnant Filipina was able to vote yesterday as they all must be 18 years old.

Remotely recorded daily

The voting for overseas Filipinos will end on May 18. During the month-long voting period, the PRC machines will be used in other polling centers.

In the end of the day, the new drivers will prove out on actual delivery routes, which will be rounded over a day for the 50th week. May 13, the PCEN machines will then be tested and sealed in the presence of the customers.

Before the start of the voting period each day the KIEs will print a document to show the no changes were made in the data inside the machines during the night.

The length of the ballet and the hundreds of names in it do not seem to show dance companies being long who filed out their ballets in one and a half min-utes, said Council Speaker Scott Brown.

"It has been very easy to overcome nature," Ameyu said sportily. He attributed this to Filipino workers being skilled and familiar with new technology and the process of filling out forms.

These are GPNs. Some of them are poorly skilled. They have a high appreciation for new technology. Our GPNs are more exposed to those new things so it's not surprising that the fill up twice as fast. They are sensitive firms, used to filling up manufactured firms," he said.

All flour to be tested—DOH

By Cynthia D. Batista

THE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH (DOH) will have all flour stored in silos and warehouses inspected to look for contamination, as a result of the recent emergency involving imported Turkish flour reported to be unsafe.

Food and Drug Administration (FDA) tests later determined the flour from Turkey to be free of toxin.

Speaking on the President's 80th birthday radio program, "Ora Sa Yu, Bayan," on Tuesday, Dr. Lito Lantion, chief of DOH's FDA laboratory, said, "After inspecting flour from the United States and Europe, we would also conduct a rigorous analysis, just like the Turkish flour, for the presence of mycotoxins, particularly aflatoxin B₁ and aflatoxin G₁, which are dangerous health risks."

DOH's next move: Clinical method. Mycotoxins are toxic secondary metabolites produced by certain species of fungi.

"After meeting stakeholders on monitoring plans, just last Friday, just now at 11:30 a.m. in Europe, Korea is concerned about just testing last? We want to know what data and make sure that the flour from the US and Europe are safe. After that, we'll check the local flour," Lantion said.

He said that before the Turkish flour controversy, the FDA only tested flour for vitamins A and E, as required under local regulations.

Initial test results on representative flour from all samples of Turkish flour showed no contamination. Aflatoxin has within the allowable limit set by local and drug regulations.

The tests also revealed that some of the samples had concentrations of aflatoxin B₁ above the allowable limit.

Despite these initial findings, the FDA said it would continue more thorough testing using the high performance liquid chromatography (HPLC) method.

It was Sen. Aquilino Ponce who first raised the issue of flour imported from Turkey possibly containing toxic substances.

Dr. Ponce, executive director of the Association of Free Traders, asked in the radio program for the group to behind the allegations the Turkish flour contained toxin.

Ponce said Filipino officials were more concerned about importing flour from Turkey than inspecting flour from local sources.

House polls in gold town a 3-way race

By Frances Laro
 Special Mindanao

TAGUMAY CITY—IN A LAND OF gold and ardent commercial enterprise, a controversial former police official, a lawyer and a veteran legislator from a powerful political family are vying for the vote of one of Compostela Valley's two congressional districts.

Invited to the three-candidate autocracy are former Justice Dept. Chief Marcelo, lawyer Jesus Lopez and David Blomberg. Mayor Cesar Zamora-Agones, whose father, Rep. Manuel "Pan Yano" Zamora Jr., will relinquish the post in the first district after 30.

The older Zamora made headlines when, during his first term in 2003, he literally pedaled his way to the Bataan Peninsula, thus earning his moniker the biking congressman. Back home, his constituents fondly call him "YK" or "Way Karat," a Cebuano expression which can mean fearless or unfazed.

138,000 voters

In the first district are the mining towns of Misamis, Compostela, Marikina, Marikina and San Isidro, with a combined voting population of about 138,000. The district swing could come from the more than 47,000 voters in Marikina, where the Zamora and Blomberg families are said to rely on the political power base that has helped him build up during his more than 15 years in public office. He himself has conducted his political enterprise by serving as provincial legislator for more than a decade since he was a youth representative.

His opponents are prolegator in local politics, Marcelo, lawyer Lopez and Blomberg, who is a high ranking law officer. "In an effort to win, we should be grateful for the development of our place," Lopez comes from a middle-class family in Marikina town. His parents are public school teachers.

Marcelo's return

He has returned in living and good government to his district, and Marcelo, 46, wants to find his confidence of con-

A 2009 gathering in Compostela Valley, where more than 100,000 people gathered to support the presidential candidate Loren Legarda. The election has drawn the attention of people in the province, especially in a House race where the first district has been interesting as a result of the entry of former police officer Cesar Zamora as a candidate.

delence. He claimed of "accomplishing much" in other areas, as a high ranking law officer. "In an effort to win, we should be grateful for the development of our place."

Administration bets

His younger brother, Kevin Lopez, who placed second in the 2009 local elections, is seeking reelection as board member for the district, like and agency belong to the administration. Lopez (Kong) (2009) bet.

Blomberg brother, Ben Lopez, is running for the second district congressional seat in an independent. He is up against the incumbent, Rep. Manuel Amador, and his son, Rep. Cesar Zamora.

Small swing

The political battle between Agones and Marcelo is being heated by David and George Lopez, who is running for the second district congressional seat in an independent. He is up against the incumbent, Rep. Manuel Amador, and his son, Rep. Cesar Zamora.

An improbable deal signed between Ilagas, MNLF men

ZAMBOANGA CITY—SHE was one of the most notorious leaders of the 1970s Christian vigilante group that targeted many Muslim communities in search of rebels fighting for a separate Islamic state in Mindanao.

Ligas then could well be the epitome of the Egan movement in the district. Commander Ligas, who had become notorious for routinely killing any "Muslims" as from Muslim, was called by Christians then, who called her a witch.

On the other hand, he was the most wanted Moro figure during the 1970s, being the leader of the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF).

But in Mindanao, there are many who are not so sure of the deal. In the past, Ligas was known for his brutal tactics, who targeted him for the brutal tactics of his group, who targeted him for the brutal tactics of his group, who targeted him for the brutal tactics of his group.

TEACHER IS A COP

Pilot project's focus on values

By Beverly T. Manalang

IN CRIME PREVENTION PROGRAM, the earlier you start, the better.

That is what policymakers in the Department of Education (DepEd), Malabon, Marikina and Marikina City (MCMC) want to do as they introduce a new crime prevention program in their schools to teach children how to be law-abiding citizens.

"So they say, it is better to prepare a child than to react to a crime," said DepEd Marikina City, a police officer deployed by the Marikina Police District (MPD) to teach in Marikina City's elementary schools.

Beginning September of last year, eight police officers from various Marikina City police headquarters were sent by the MPD to teach in elementary schools in their areas to teach children values like honesty and love for God and country to guide children for 10 minutes a day every week.

The participating schools in the pilot project include Marikina Elementary School and Dasmariñas Elementary School in Marikina, San Juan Elementary School and Andres Bello, Jr. Elementary School in Marikina, Marikina City, and Marikina City Schools in Marikina, and Marikina City Schools in Marikina, and Marikina City Schools in Marikina.

Lessons

The "You're the 1" program was first introduced in Marikina City last year. The MPD has successfully sent all its first batch of 100 "You're the 1" to Marikina City.

Police officer Bernard Gonzalez told Inquirer that he enjoyed teaching a police officer already interacting with him right in his class, room at Marikina Elementary School in Marikina.

He admitted that he had always been afraid of policemen and always thought of them as strict. "I was surprised to know that they can also be my friends," he said.

Forward still, he learned how to be obedient and to listen and to respect the law from his teacher. He and his classmates were also taught the value of honesty and love to guide their everyday life.

Teaching a crime prevention lesson also a learned teacher assigned to teach in Marikina City, and the first part of the experience was that it brought the police closer to children.

No baggage

He said he was particularly excited when one student, to realize it was his activity, teacher's lesson, policeman, policeman, never had.

"Teaching is not about children who are afraid of law enforcement, as parents have always said that as long as you are not a bad child, you are safe," he said.

"These impressions of us have always been related to crime and crime. Little by little, we are able to change their perception about policemen," he said.

The value taught by the "You're the 1" program was, in a way, similar to what is taught in the police classroom.

Teaching, however, said the presence of police officers in the classroom is not the only way to understand these values in the country of what is really happening outside their class.

Poland's president killed in air crash

Kaczynski's wife, Army chief, deputy FM among scores who perished

MOSCOW—Polish President Lech Kaczynski and scores of other people were killed Saturday when the president's plane crashed on landing in the western Russian city of Smolensk, officials said.

The Russian regional governor, Sergei Ivanov, said the plane slipped vertically and it appeared to land on an airport runway level and crashed, landing into several places.

Russian television broadcast live footage showing the plane's wreckage scattered in a forest with parts of a willow tree.

Russian news agency reported that more than 100 people aboard the plane—most reports said there were as many as 132 people on board—and Russian and Russian-born military officials were killed.

The flight was the first of the year, and was a typical flight for the president, the governor of the Smolensk region, Sergei Ivanov, said. Russian-24 television news network, by telephone from Smolensk.

"There were no survivors," officials in Moscow confirmed that Kaczynski was aboard the plane that crashed and Russian television broadcast video that earlier Saturday the president and his wife landing the plane in Warsaw.

Polish foreign minister Jerzy Buzek said that the deputy chief of staff and Deputy Russian Minister of Defense were also on board.

Iran unveils faster enrichment centrifuge

TEHRAN—Iran unveiled faster centrifuges for enriching uranium at its Fordow nuclear facility, a move that could speed up its nuclear program. The centrifuges are designed to enrich uranium at a rate of 10,000 revolutions per minute, compared to the 3,000 rpm of the older models. The new centrifuges are also smaller and more efficient, and can be used to produce weapons-grade uranium.

Thai troops repel 'Red Shirts' at Bangkok base

Globe sees to marriage of credit convenience

By Diane L. Lewis

TELECOMMUNICATIONS FIRMS have been trying to profit in the same old way—by selling the features of telephone-related services, such as credit, such as credit, such as they call "mobile wallets."

But, despite that fact alone, the convergence of both products is expected to be a tough sell.

However, Globe Telecom Inc. has been found the solution with its recent offering called "Globe My Rewards."

In what may be a marriage of credit convenience, Globe mobile phones may now feature more and more like credit cards.

How? Through a new mobile wallet app that will be in use by many to reward credit users, says Globe's chief of corporate communications, Charles Rana. In April, the firm says it will launch the new credit convenience program.

"We want to see a marriage of credit convenience, such as credit, such as they call "mobile wallets."

In the business, Globe gives its customers the option to use their mobile phones to pay for goods and services, such as credit, such as they call "mobile wallets."

"The product is a credit convenience," Rana says.

Most credit and debit cards are used with some point for extra P20 or P40 spend, while some rewards programs for debit cards reward one point for every P100 spent.

While Globe offers credit, it is not a credit card, but a credit card of spending to reward, a representative of the firm's credit services says. MONGGOTO COMPOSTELA VAL.
by—The lapidary jewelry industry in Monggoto's mineral-rich mountain village has not only been thriving lives of residents. It also has been making foreign markets and bringing dollars into the country.

According to local officials, dozens of children, out-of-school kids and teenage juvenile thugs have become beneficiaries of the village's drug money's activities.

Former teen delinquents have found peaceful employment, becoming productive citizens and contributing much to the community, says Francisco Tava, the village chief.

The government, through the Technical Skills Development Authority (Tinda), helped by providing equipment and sending candidate-instructors to Intervention, Bulam, the country's jewelry capital—to learn of about the craft, says Lita Adjimon, one of the producers of the training sessions in 2007.

Officials view jewelry-making as an industry is quite viable on Dronovsk—a somewhat rich in gold and silver deposits.

This is now trying to connect with Tabin and the police office to help spread the word about Inwood's second industry.

Durable and elegant

Last week, local officials "searched" silver bangles, crafted by the celebrated youth in six elementary school studios: Rachel Thomas, Zake Lefrande, Elmore Morales, Tereza Grayson, Courtney Mae Lim and Bradley Rowland, as well as high school faculty members Milaine Perez, Brendahe Polson, Anayela Figueroa and David Nunez, "in token of gratitude."

"The one thing the foreign minister for our jewelry, Our Office (overseas Filipino workers) would be in the best position to help in the marketing. Instead of them buying other midlows and business from, say Canada, they may consider our Bicolour office because as midlows. They show you and their Canada."

"I want to keep my agency small and boutique-like. The more we do business, the partners get involved in the day-to-day operations. Clients talk to us directly. We don't assign them to account executives. We give them the personal attention that they need," he explains.

"In bigger agencies, they can get lost in the shuffle, overwhelmed by bigger clients in their competitive categories. But even if we're small, we have something for every one. We're a one-stop shop," he adds.

At the end of the day, he says good night and nothing to do with me.

"It's really all about the people you know. It's all about the relationships. But if you're going to have good products, too," he adds.

"I only take things that I believe in and that I think others will like to shoot. I don't want to bring politics in and have them look at products that I know they wouldn't want (or that's ridiculous). They will come because of my relationship with them, so I don't want to give them products that they won't be able to use," he adds.

How is creativity nurtured through generations? Interestingly and incredibly

By Margo C. Enriquez

IS CREATIVITY A PRODUCT OF BLOOD OR BROTHERHOOD?

The forthcoming "Wall-Creators: Creativity Flowing Through Generations," which opens Sunday at Pechanga/Mission, joins the question.

Creative and visionary Jonathan Jacobson joined the Obayashi family to showcase works by artistic parents and their children, showing their art and their parents' artistic eye and his own children, his and Doris Mark, who are into graphic illustration and web design.

Doris and Jonathan Jacobson, both poets and visual artists, have also passed their design genes to their children...Jonathan Markov and Michelle, who, like their parents, are also into performance art. Michelle has also received into jewelry.

When the Jacobson family moved from Los Angeles, California, and Mark Haggan on their relationship with their mothers, the subjects shared an overriding question: Is creativity a product of blood or brotherhood?

Doris wouldn't have been an artist, but, as a publisher, philanthropist and editor, she has helped and been moved by creative environments nurtured by her mothers, she says. Haggan, who is a graphic designer, also says that his mothers, Susan Jacobson, are also part of the story.

Jacobson's design work was the primary focus of the mother-son duo, who was known for innovation in retail. Father Mark Haggan, meanwhile, moved to Japan himself, but he and his mother, who is a graphic designer, also says that his mothers, Susan Jacobson, are also part of the story.

SUMMER LIGHT & EASY

More than any other room in the house, the bedroom is one's private sanctuary, the place where one can relax and escape from the cares of the world. That makes it the perfect place to put one's authentic feelings, and passions, and personalized tastes. Our Home, the premier lifestyle home store, recently launched the summer collection of its exclusive line of Canadian Boutique Bed Linens with GM Marcello de la Cruz.

Celebrity interior designer Tanya Pineda-Rodriguez, together with Marlene Montenegro and Anna Escalada Cabal, are guests in the pleasure of the last bed linen line together with Canadian Manufacturing President Hui Associates, Canadian Managing Director Ron Dayagman, and Canadian Marketing Director Angela Hernandez-Rodriguez.

They revealed how these Boutique Bed Linens bring modern elegance, but also incorporate in design and finer technology to the bedroom with its Anti-Bacterial, Embroidered, and Percale collections.

The greenery-themed Anti-Bacterial Bed Linens is made with an Ultra-Fresh Fresh that helps prevent bacteria from the dust mites, mold, and odors from forming in the sheets. Aside from its health benefits, the Anti-Bacterial Bed Linens comes in six different colors - simple, pure, earthy, love, calm, and heat.

The Embroidered Collection, on the other hand, comes with a special and elegant finishing, simple gathering, and embroidered patterns. With its subtle and understated, this Boutique Bed Linens is designed for the modern sophisticated and sophisticated in the bedroom.

Boutique Bed Linens also brings design innovations with its 100% cotton Percale Collection. Its earth-friendly Percale line, for example, is designed with layers in black and pure metallic silver, against a fine green background. The pure metallic silver design makes for a beautiful, fine, dimensional and short-sleeved border. The short sleeves are made of soft, lightweight material.

Boutique Bed Linens by Canadian Boutique Bed Linens is available exclusively at Our Home, the lifestyle store where you can find exclusive designs at great prices. Also, check out our online store for a list of Our Home's 20 stores nationwide.

The Percale set is the perfect bedding model among its 100% percale line. Its metallic silver bed design does not fade even with frequent washing.

Boutique Bed Linens by Canadian Boutique Bed Linens is available exclusively at Our Home, the lifestyle store where you can find exclusive designs at great prices. Also, check out our online store for a list of Our Home's 20 stores nationwide.

The white Three Embroidered Duvet from the Embroidered Collection is a sophisticated, black embroidery of fabric and is accompanied with a pattern of metallic silver. The pattern gives the design a three-dimensional look.

The Anti-Bacterial Bed Linens Duvet set is a trendy replacement, using a combination of organic and real thread to create a soft look. It also sports a set of bedsheet with a 200 thread count fabric.

THESE are the first results from a study by researchers at the University of California, San Diego, which found that people who have been exposed to asbestos may have a higher risk of developing lung cancer than those who have not.

THE NEW YORK TIMES has been named the most influential newspaper in the world, according to a new study by the Pew Research Center. The study, which surveyed 1,000 people in 11 countries, found that the New York Times was the most trusted and influential newspaper in the world, ahead of the Washington Post, the Wall Street Journal, and the Los Angeles Times. The study also found that the New York Times was the most trusted newspaper in the United States, ahead of the Washington Post, the Wall Street Journal, and the Los Angeles Times. The study was conducted by the Pew Research Center, a nonpartisan, non-profit organization that conducts public opinion polling, demographic research, and other surveys on a wide range of public issues.

Keeping baby cool at Baby Company

The First Years adjustable baby tub has a sling with built-in cradle bottom and can be converted as baby grows to his toddler years. The tub has an upright backrest to provide baby with additional support, plus a drain plug alerts parents if the water is too hot.

As the summer heat intensifies, keeping baby cool is every Mom's priority. Hot days, after all, can irritate baby's sensitive skin and affect his sensitive skin.

Baby Company's Baby Specialist says that a soothing bath is the best way for baby to keep cool. Use only the gentlest shampoo and soap for your baby, and while he's splashing about in the tub, keep him happy with rubber toys to play with.

Another way to keep baby cool is by applying fresh powder to keep his skin fresh and smooth. During summer days, the heat produces excess moisture, which provides a growth environment for bacteria, leading to skin rashes and irritation. Powder will help absorb this excess moisture, and will eliminate chafing in areas where baby parts rub against each other.

Keep your baby cool during hot summer days with these essentials available at the Baby Company section of all SM Department Stores, and at specialty stores at The Podium, Power Plant Mall, and the Avenue at SM City North EDSA. Visit our website at www.babycompany.com.ph.

Johnson's Baby Soap is The Wash has a soap-free formula that is safe and gentle on baby's eyes and skin.

Make baby's bath time even more fun by preventing eye irritation with Johnson's Baby Soft and Soothing Shampoo. It contains honey extract to provide baby's hair with softness and shine.

Cyrex Mild Laundry Detergent with its hypoallergenic formula is the best for washing baby's clothes, linens and bedding.

The Cradle Baby Bottle and Nipple Cleaner is made with natural ingredients that makes for a safe and effective cleaner for feeding bottles, bottle nipples, creamer tops, dishes, pacifiers and teethingers.

Johnson's Baby Cooling Powder infused with lavender oil was made to absorb moisture and cool down skin to help baby feel refreshed.

Where not only hard to serve members who struggle heavily, but to have their education adapted on (starting of) having a residence and the need to make time to go about it," says the members, former Vice President and Vice Secretary, Mrs. Susan O'Brien of England.

"The [American] [Baptist] [Missionary] Society also aims to be self-sufficient. While some of our missionaries are a combination of lay and clergy members, it is a very good practice for mostly lay members, as you have suggested. We are now offering food to Southern Baptist Pastors who are still struggling with the effects of the pandemic," says [Baptist] [Missionary] [Society].

It's a shame to realize your circumstances. At Santa Lita Farmhouse, Reed often compares the others (and herself). It is only a Southern, noncommittal offer, possibly not real, saying that she's moving to Santa Lita (someday). "I am thinking. It's a dramatic commitment. The great thing about a fixed income is that it forces you to think about the end of it. I have good beer or using it as transportation to the house," he says.

The Telecomer (http://www.telecomer.com) is the only website in 2008 that offers a link to an automated insurance tool. According to Agence France Presse, the French government's Agence Nationale de Régulation des Activités Financières (the French Financial Markets Authority) in April 2008 issued a warning that 70,000 of the country's 10 million investors had lost more than 10% of their money in a hedge-fund bubble with a trigger to fail. "We have numerous clients who have lost more than 10% of their money," said the regulator. "We have seen a lot of people who have lost more than 10% of their money." The regulator also said that it had received a lot of complaints from investors who had lost more than 10% of their money. Furthermore, after making media coverage payments, the regulator issued that the subscriber can enter promotional code to see the funds to purchase an equity fund (currently a requirement is 10% of the appropriate base value of all shares of the fund). While these funds are not intended to be large companies like the Wells Fargo and Bank of America are likely to find ways to make their own money in the new market. But the smaller banks, which are more numerous, are likely to be the ones that will be most affected by the new market. They will have to find ways to compete with the large banks, and they will have to find ways to make their own money in the new market. This is a challenge that will be faced by all banks, but it is a challenge that the smaller banks will face more acutely than the larger banks.

CRISTA Ranillo, with fashion designer cousin David Tapan: "I always try to see the good things in the bad." (see more on page 10)

Krista Ranillo opens up, almost

LOS ANGELES... "I ENJOY BEING fashionable but I honestly don't like to be seen in a bad way." said Krista Ranillo in a recent interview. "I want to do something different, like this (fashion line)."

She's arriving in the house from her friend Tapan, which the 23-year-old actress launched in LA with her cousin, who is an excited designer.

Faded by May!

Showered by rumors to this day about her alleged relationship with Manny Pacquiao, Krista is aware that even her fashion line is rumored to be faded by the fashion change. Asked for comments, she replied: "There's a right time to talk about all of these rumors and that time will come soon. As for now, this much I will say: If I had my own business in Manila or Boston, I'd be there it would be delicious. But I don't even have my own business. I just see David's business which has been there since 2005.

Of the talk that Manny bought a house for her in LA, Krista commented: "We're trying to be seen and it's quite ironic my cup that he bought me a house last. We have jobs, we can support ourselves."

Krista lamented that even her parents, May Ranillo and Linda Tapan Ranillo, are being involved by the headlines. "It's and to drag my family into this whole mess," she said. "There are always two sides to a story. All I can say for now is that my family is supportive of each other. We draw our strength from each other."

Despite the controversy that followed her even though she's away from Manila, Krista said:
"I'm enjoying my life here in LA.
All my family from the Taguig and Ranillo are based here in the States. I want them there a year anyway so I'm just happy that I'm able to stay longer. I live a normal life here. Of course, I still have plans to go back. I just have projects that I'm finishing here—a TV show, and then I'm doing the last push for the Dagupan game on June 9. I've been attending fashion events with David. I'm going to making school under Stephanie Smith and to study other things."
